2015 LIVING TREASURES OF HAWAII'I™

BLOSSOM PUANANI ALAMA TOM is an icon of hula, known throughout the world as an outstanding hula teacher and dancer. For 75 years, Blossom has perpetuated the Hawaiian culture by sharing the beauty and grace of hula with generations of those who appreciate the art, from Waikiki to Washington, D.C. Besides dancing, Blossom has served as a judge for many hula events, including the Merry Monarch Hula Festival, and is the only surviving judge from its first festival. She holds the honorable title of the oldest active Kumu Hula (hula master) alive today.

HAUNANI S. APOLIONA has dedicated her life to helping the native Hawaiian community. Through her contributions in the field of social work with Alu Like, she helped to improve the lives of Native Hawaiians. As the longest serving Board chairperson in the history of the Office of Hawaiian Affairs (OHA) trustee, she provided leadership in the pursuit of Federal Recognition for native Hawaiians, and the formation of a native Hawaiian governing entity. Haunani continues to bolster the Hawaiian culture through music, as a composer and award-winning master slack-key guitarist.

Through tutelage and talent, DR. BERNICE KUSAKO HIRAI continues to grow an appreciation of the Japanese culture. As a professor at the University of Hawai'i College of Education, Dr. Hirai has shared her love of the Japanese language with students and was instrumental in the development of instructional materials for secondary schools. She is also a sought after performer in koto, being the first person outside of Japan to be awarded the Shihan (Master Instructor) rank by Sawai Sokyoku-In, Tokyo. At age 89, she is writing a book about the history of koto in Hawaii, a clear demonstration of a continuous passion for growth and learning.

PAULETTE NOHEALANI KAHALEPUNA A love of the feather lei was passed down to Paulette Nohealani Kahalepuna from her mother. For over thirty years, she has been preserving the ancient Hawaiian art of featherwork through her award-winning, internationally recognized lei. Paulette has led feather lei making and kahili (feather standards) workshops around the world and has helped in the restoration and creation of numerous kahili ku (large kahili) for Kamehameha Schools and the Queen Lili'uokalani Children's Center. Today, the tradition continues with mother, daughter, and granddaughter being involved, assuring the beautiful art form will continue and grow.

LAURA RUBY'S numerous and exceptional contributions to Hawaii are not only read, but seen. As a teacher at the University of Hawai'i Art Department and author of two books, Laura has helped to foster an appreciation and interest in art history in Honolulu. Through her work with the Landscape Advisory Committee for the UH Manoa, she has helped to beautify the campus. She was also key in initiating the process of giving the Moiliili entrance to the University an official name, Moiliili Gate. She continues to have a hand in bringing beauty and art to the campus, helping to draft a comprehensive Campus Artwork Policy, which is forthcoming.

BARRY TANIGUCHI is widely known as a successful businessman, yet his contributions to the community are just as broad and equally significant. As Chairman and CEO of Puna Plantation Hawaii Ltd. (dba KTA Super Stores) and President and CEO of K. Taniguchi Ltd., Barry leads by example, having served on several boards including the Chamber of Commerce of Hawaii, Hawaii Health Systems Corp, the Hawaii Employees Council, University of Hawaii Mauna Kea Management Board, Hawaii Employers Council, the Queen's Health Systems and American Savings Bank. Altruism and philanthropy are hallmarks of this respected businessman and family man, who continuously demonstrates his commitment to the State by donating generously of his time.
